

Collective for Community, Culture
and Environment

ebaron@collectiveforcce.com
collectiveforcce.com

EVE BARON
Urban Planning

Eve Baron is an urban planner and educator with over 20 years of New York City experience. She is currently Chair of the Graduate Center for Planning and Environment Program at Pratt Institute. She has worked as a planner and policy analyst with the Brooklyn Borough President's Office, was the past director of the Municipal Art Society Planning Center, and was Senior Fellow for Planning and Policy at the Pratt Center for Community Development. Eve served as project manager for the CCCE team engaged by LISC to conduct community visioning workshops for the Mott Haven Choice Neighborhoods Initiative, and was the lead on affordable housing for the zoning and land use section for the Plan for Chinatown and Surrounding Areas. Eve has a PhD in Planning and Policy from Rutgers University.