WENDY FLEISCHER
Energy Urban Planning and Environmental Justice

Wendy Fleisher develops and coordinates initiatives at the intersection of community development and environmental sustainability. Her strengths are in the areas of program development, writing, research, program management and fundraising. Wendy focuses on the areas of community development, building energy efficiency, and environmental justice. As NYSERDA's Energy Smart Communities Coordinator for Brooklyn and Queens, Wendy created the Retrofit Block by Block initiative which helped inform the development of Green Jobs Green NY (GJGNY). She later led technical assistance to community-based organizations conducting outreach for NYSERDA under GJGNY. Wendy has an MS in City and Regional Planning from the University of Pennsylvania.
